

Abstract

Stabilized pharmaceutical compositions comprising polymorphs of active pharmaceutical ingredients susceptible to conversion to alternate polymorph forms are prepared by a process of wet granulation in which the ratios of active, fillers, and granulating liquid are controlled in order to avoid polymorphic interconversions.